

Most of the Amega Global products work off of the foundation of zero point energy. If you don't know what zero point energy is (and neither did I when I first heard of it), it is defined as: "the infinite, formless, non-frequency energy that contains all potential in the Cosmos' quantum vacuum. When this energy is condensed down into matter, information is stored in the molecular structures and has vibratory frequency, commonly known as the electromagnetic spectrum"

AMized® Fusion Technology is a process that changes the structure of molecules and charges matter to give off a zero point energy force that is called AMized® resonance. This allows your body to be able to access the healing energy from within itself. It helps to balance the energy in your body and bring everything such as mental, emotional, physical and even spiritual into unison.

Now unless you are a scientist, let me put it into plain English for you. When you use a product that has been charged with zero point energy, it reminds your body cells "where they came from". In other words, it reminds them that they were once healthy cells and to return to such a state. Thus, it puts the body in a favorable state to return to "source" from within and subside the pain that it is having. Getting rid of pain is not the only benefit that coming in contact with zero point energy could afford you.

All living organisms have a special structure in what is called a bio energy field. The human body has bio-energy fields that are made up of subtle organisms with energetic potentials that give strength and power to the biological field. Energetic balance and unobstructed flow of energy are important to health and wellness. These are the fields of the human body:

- *Energy Field
- *General Blood Circulation
- *Head Field
- *Throat Field
- *Shoulder Field
- *Back Field
- *Heart and Chest Field
- *Stomach Field
- *Kidneys and Bladder Field
- *Sexual or Reproductive Field

Now imagine the possibility of being able to remind your body of "source" without spending thousands at the doctor's office or on pain medication. I know it sounds crazy, but I've used it myself and seen it done on other people with the same results. You'll probably wonder why you have never heard of it before, but that's because this is BRAND NEW to those of us here in Canada and the USA. They've had this technology over in Asia for about 3 years now. How someone from here didn't find out about this sooner is beyond me.

All in all I wouldn't have believed it unless I had personally tested it myself and seen others have the same results. That's why I highly suggest you listen in on a live phone call! You can tell when people are being genuine by the sound of their voice. These people really had their pain taken away and were extremely excited by it.

Is it a miracle cure all? No, and the company is quick to tell you that. But as more and more people are testing out these products and having amazing results, there is definitely going to be a health care revolution happening. The business end is also extremely ground floor. Once word gets out about what these products are doing for people, you can bet there is going to be a mad dash to get involved.
